Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 2.—An official canvass in the eighth congressional district gives Lon A. Scott, republican, a majority of 638 vote and the victory over his democratic opponent, Gordon Browning. This fixes the political alignment of the Tennessee delegation in the new house of representatives, on the face of the returns, as five republicans and five democrats—a net republican gain of three members.

Talks for Open Highways
District Engineer Balsley, of the State Highway department was present and said that experiments on keeping the highways open had demonstrated nothing as to actual cost on any plan which might be proposed as the weather, open and severe winters, blizzards and many other things, make it difficult to enter into the question. That it was feasible, and that snow could be removed and successfully so was not an open question. It had been suggested that the county board keep county where a program of keeping 80 miles of road had received the endorsement of the county board and $25,000 had been appropriated for the purpose.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—The drop in the price of gasoline in Great Britain was attributed today to a weakened market caused by the entry of Russian products into the English market, by officials of the standard market. Stored supplies of gasoline in this country were said to have been below normal for the last 6 months.

2ND DIVISION TO BE FULLY RECRUITED

Washington, Nov. 8.—Telegraphic orders were sent today to the army recruiting stations to recruit the Second division to full fighting strength immediately. It was explained at the war department under the provisions of the national defense act that the division must be of full strength and that the Second division had been selected by general staff as the unit to be first mobilized in case of war.

The division, stationed at Camp Travis, Texas, is 6,000 short of its full strength of 12,000 men. It is the only recruiting service never before in time of peace had been given a similar test. Recruits are taken from all parts of the country.

open in the worst winter in years or a little less than $300 a mile. Mr. Balsley returned to the committee. One of the points of the Highway Commissioners: Cavanaugh of Milwaukee county for the details. "I am of the opinion," he said, "that the county board will not appropriate money for snow clearing on a fixed program of keeping certain trunk roads open and dividing the benefit into the county generally. It ought not to be a hard job to keep the roads open. The thing to do is to have the crew ready when the snow falls and with a job at the front of a truck it can be kept clear. It is not a hard job. The thing needed to be cleared. It may come a time when there will be need of shoveling, especially after a storm and wind or from an engine."

Commissioner Moore Called Upon. County Highway Commissioner Moore was asked his opinion. He said he had wanted to make the experiment in keeping a road or so open last winter. There was to have been a fund, he, of $1000 for that purpose to be disbursed by the board. The board had "never seen the money." He was of the opinion that the work of road opening could be largely accomplished by trucks and outfits the county already has. He said the board should undertake to say what the county board would do but was of the opinion the board would vote no money for snow removal.

ROAD NEAR KANSAS CITY IS PROBABLE.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Kansas City, Mo.—Nov. 9.—Plans to secure the extradition of Dennis Chester, arrested yesterday at Great Falls, Mont., and return him to Kansas City to face a charge of first degree murder for the killing of Miss Florence Barton, Kansas City society girl, who was shot to death on the night of October 2, on a lonely suburban road here, were made by officials today.

Misses Barton was shot to death when three men in a motor car drew up beside the automobile in which she and her fiance, Howard Winter, were riding. Robbery was believed the motive of the attack.

An "underground railroad" is utilized by soviet agents to bring into Holland a number of communists who plan to make attempts to reach America. There appears to be a constant current of these men crossing and recrossing the frontier. Every means of getting them into Holland is used.

Reports have been received here that many bolshevik sympathizers who were last year deported as undesirable from America are being allowed to return to their country. Police officials assert a special bureau has been created here to take care of them. It is said that the bureau is carefully laid plans for getting the agitators back into the United States.

BUCKWHEAT $5.60 LESS THAN IN 1918

Prices for buckwheat flour compared to last year are $3.50 per barrel under and $5.60 below the 1918 market price, according to the Blodgett-Holmes company, one of the largest buckwheat millers in the country. The low price is largely due to readjustment. The corporation gives this statement: "Dissatisfied with the price, have sold little. Jobbers have bought less, because of unseasonable weather. The bulk of the crop is yet to be marketed while most of the season's needs are yet to be marketed. Continued unfavorable weather may force the price still lower."

LIBRARY TO HAVE COMFORT STATIONS

Council Committee To Take Matter Up With Library and State Health Boards.

A comfort station for women and another for men will be established in the basement of the public library. This was decided by the council at a regular meeting last night. The plan is to have the station carried through. This will be a temporary solution to the problem. The other stations on the west side of the city will probably be established later.

Fixing up the library basement for two stations is felt to be a start toward a definite program. With no appropriation provided for in the budget for this purpose, the council does not want to adopt an extensive program requiring the expenditure of upwards of $50,000. It is believed the two stations in the library can be installed for less than $1,500.

Upon the recommendation of Ald. Walter Helms, of the Third, it was unanimously voted last night to have the special committee on the public library board and the state board of health. The state board has adopted a certain plan for comfort stations which must be followed.

The proposal is to have part of each side of the basement for use as a comfort station. Doors being cut away with using the main entrance to the library. Two new stairways will be built.

Two More Stations. Alderman Helms made the full report of the committee in which it was recommended that in addition to the library, basement stations be located in the city hall and in the rear of the Fifield Lumber company's office, West Milwaukee, at South Jackson street. No action was taken on the last two suggestions.

The special committee is composed of: Mayor T. E. Welsh, City Engineer C. V. Kerch, City Attorney Roger G. Cunningham, and Aldermen Helms, Ransom, Menzies, Kelly, Badger, and Hill.

TRACTION SYSTEMS FACE DIFFICULTIES IN COAL SHORTAGE

Traction systems of Wisconsin are facing special difficulties at this time chiefly as a result of the coal shortage, which hampers them in regaining a position of financial stability despite inaction in rates, according to the statistical department of the railroad commission. "While labor conditions have improved materially, with expenses cut through the growing use of the one-man car, the commission says that high-priced coal, hard to obtain, together with the credit situation, is keeping the systems in the same precarious position they have held since 1918. Profits of Wisconsin systems have fallen from 6 1/2 per cent in 1916 to 1 1/2 per cent, according to the last compilation of the department.

Because of unsatisfactory earnings the companies have been unable to obtain credit except at prohibitive rates of interest, which has resulted, according to the commission, in a curtailment of any great activity toward expansion. The fact that in many cities the traction companies are unable to pay better than their trucks as provided by ordinance, the commission points out, is an indication of the close margin on which they are running.

It is a return to normal conditions of labor and of material can solve the present problem, the commission feels. The increased use of the one-man car in Wisconsin towns has cut down the numbers of the riding public appreciably, so that there are a number of factors that enter into the picture of a situation that has occupied the attention of the railroad body for several months.

While Janesville was granted an increase in rates to 10 cents last week, the commission feels, according to officials, that no further increase will be granted until the coal conditions in industry are better.

Old Friend of P. T. Barnum Active at 92; To Observe His 93d Birthday Next Week

BY DAVID WATT.
 Back in the days when P. T. Barnum brought Jenny Lind, the Swedish Nightingale, to America, one of his closest friends was O. L. DeForrest, who resides one-half mile outside the city on the Mineral Point road. P. T. Barnum and Jenny Lind have been dead many years but Mr. DeForrest who settled here more than 65 years ago will celebrate Nov. 12, if he lives, his ninety-third birthday anniversary.

Mr. DeForrest was born Nov. 15, 1827 at Schenectady, New York. Just 16 miles from Albany. He is a ready talker, blessed with a wonderful memory and recalls to mind details of incidents which happened in the state of his nativity over 70 years ago. A few years later he moved within four miles of Albany where his father had purchased a farm. He then lived there until he was 18. He then left home and went to New York where he remained for three years. It was at this time that he became closely attached to the great showman, P. T. ## COUNCIL ACTS TO GET PLANS FOR NEW VOTING PRECINCTS

MAYOR APPOINTS COMMITTEE TO TAKE UP WORK AT ONCE. HAVE ONE MONTH

Division of Wards Must Be Made Four Months Before Next Election.

First definite steps toward providing additional voting precincts in Janesville to be ready for the election in the fall were taken at the adjourned council meeting last night when Mayor T. E. Welsh appointed a committee of five to begin the work. It was upon the motion of Ald. Walter Helms that the action was taken.

The following committee was named, there being one representative from each of the five wards. Ald. E. P. Kelly, chairman. Aldermen W. J. Hill, Walter Helms, C. E. Kessel, and L. E. Douthett. The committee will meet at an early date to list voters according to their residences and suggest a preliminary on a new re-districting plan.

At Least 10 Needed. The statutes make it mandatory to divide an election district when more than 600 votes are cast in a general election and that the division shall be made at least four months before the next election, meaning that the work must be completed here within a month. As the statutes stand today, it is mandatory that Janesville have at least 10 voting precincts instead of five as at present.

In the election a week ago, the vote in four wards numbered over the 600 mark and in two of these precincts over 1,200. The fifth is the only ward which cast under 600. The number of voters in each ward was: First, 1,098; Second, 909; Third, 1,880; Fourth, 1,288; and Fifth, 541; a total of 48,785.

The statute, however, does not take cognizance of women as voters. When on the books for a long time. Whether the legislature will make any changes in the voting limit in election districts is a matter of conjecture.

Each to Have but 500. The section then goes on to say that:

"The districts shall be composed of compact, contiguous territory, one of which shall contain more than 500 voters."

Following out this statute to the letter would mean that the three precincts out of the first ward, two out of the Second, four out of the Third, and three out of the Fourth, or a total of 13 precincts would be needed. This plan will be worked out will not be known until the committee convenes. City Attorney Roger G. Cunningham was named as a special member of it.

ORFORDVILLE MILK MADE INTO BUTTER

Orfordville.—The Butting Creamery which was recently sold to the Milk Producers association is being overhauled and put in condition for separating the milk of the association which has been held, in Orfordville, by the English people. The society seems to have made the discovery that just at this time there is an over production of condensed milk in the country and that better returns can be secured by the farmers to make their output into butter. Whether or not the condensation will close for a time the condensation is not known.

Another load of hard coal was received at one of the local yards Monday. There is still a great shortage in anti-frost coal, all of the county and that better returns can be secured by the farmers to make their output into butter. Whether or not the condensation will close for a time the condensation is not known.

A musical concert, consisting of numbers by pianist Lepton and soprano, will be given Wednesday evening. The company is held in high esteem by all who have heard it. Tickets are on sale by members of the senior class of the high school.

Mrs. Anna Nichols was home over the week-end after attending the teachers' convention in Milwaukee. She returned to Madison last evening.

WARDS OR PRECINCTS.

That the city of Janesville does not have the proper representation on the county board is a matter of common knowledge. We have five members. The city of Beloit has nine; Edgerton, about one-eighth of the population of this city, has 3; so does Evansville. We are of the opinion that these cities are fully entitled to that number of members. But Janesville, now facing the absolute mandatory necessity of making more polling places, has started a program of adding precincts rather than wards. The mayor has been perfectly frank about the reason why he does not want additional wards. He says the city council would be harder to handle.

If we are to have an aldermanic government it ought to be just as nearly representative as it is possible to make it. The Gazette is not fearful that a larger number in the city council would be detrimental or dangerous. Our wards are ungainly and have grown beyond original plans. Three—at least—of them have widely different interests in their own make-up. Janesville has interests, too, in the county, and needs and demands which as the membership on the county board is now, she has no way of emphasizing.

Some day we will have a city manager here and eliminate the necessity for volunteer conduct of the city affairs. Then the objection to the larger council will have been removed and the city will also be properly represented on the county board.

As it is, the Third ward, with one member on the board, has only one vote. But on election day it voted at the polls as many ballots as were cast in the towns of Avon, Bralford, Center, Janesville, Johnston, La Prairie, Magnolia, Rock, Spring Valley and the village of Footville. In other words there are ten members representing the same vote as the Third ward represented by one vote, in the county board. These towns are well within their rights, both legal and moral, and in equity. But it is plain that the Third ward of Janesville, while represented legally, is not by the measure of any other rule. There is not a ward in the city to which in a lesser degree the same facts will not apply. This demands careful consideration and more than passing notice.

KEEPING ONE ROAD OPEN.

Additional evidence comes each day in the movement which seems to be universally interesting all over the winter-bound country, as to the feasibility of open roads free for traffic 12 months in the year. There is a railroad in the United States that does not operate in the winter—but that is in the Colorado mountains. Every other road including those in the very farthest north of Canada keep traffic going all winter with the possible exception of a few days when the snow gets too bad or during a raging blizzard. In a rich, civilized community like that of Rock and adjacent counties, long since past the pioneer stage and out of the makeshift rut, it would seem that snow-blocked roads, making traffic all but impossible for many weeks, permitting people to die because medical attendance cannot be had, is a waste of time and money, and a crime, and any price to be paid to keep the roads free would be a perfectly good and paying investment.

We are to try the experiment on the Janesville-Beloit road this winter. The cities of Beloit and Janesville are united in this effort and the amount to be raised will be used to have an open, accessible road the winter through. It will cost, the estimate is made, $10 a day for each city for the 125 days of the snow months. If that is not a good investment for a city of 25,000 people, it will be hard to find one.

Snow removal is not a hobby, but a business investment. It is mechanically feasible, it has paid in localities wherever it has been tried. In accordance with the high aims of Rock county to be first in the state, a program keeping the important highway arteries of the county open the year around will some day be put in effect and the sooner the thing is done the more money will be saved.

WAKES TO THE OCEAN WATERWAY.

Now that Senator Lenroot is returned we may expect that the waterway to the ocean from the Great Lakes will receive new impetus in the coming session and later on also when the republicans are in full command of the ship. Mr. Lenroot, it is anticipated, will become the leader of the movement and make the great fight for the bill.

Eastern opposition may prevent participation of the United States in the movement to develop a channel for ocean liners along the St. Lawrence river whereby Atlantic ships may be loaded and unloaded at the great lake ports.

New York and Boston would lose some business by the development, and, no matter how great a saving to the west or how great an advantage for world traffic, New York and Boston will oppose it. That is to be expected.

Because New York and Boston interests are powerful, their opposition is to be feared. It may overthrow the whole plan.

The dark aspect of this news is brightened by recent news from Canada. Canada is beginning to contemplate the possibility of being obliged to do the work all by herself, even though the cost will run into hundreds of millions.

If this is done, the United States will occupy the most embarrassing position of profiting from something she refused to share in building.

Deadly Dust

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—Dust explosions from a bewildering variety of sources and almost all sorts of dust continue to worry manufacturers and the Government. Since the method of collecting dust in factories, supposedly a real safeguard, caused an explosion, chemists in Government and private laboratories are hunting more anxiously than ever for solutions to the dust danger.

It has for some years been understood that grain dust suspended in sufficient quantities in the atmosphere might cause an explosion if a match were lighted or a spark of electricity released. Later, however, dust from sugar, chocolate, rubber, fertilizer, starch, paper, and other materials has proved explosive. A campaign against carelessness in dusty grain elevators and mills has cut down the number of accidents there, but at a recent conference in dust explosions it was shown that in the 12 months preceding there had been at least seven serious explosions in other kinds of factories, in which at least 80 people were killed, and $7,000,000 worth of property destroyed.

The Bureau of Chemistry in the Department of Agriculture says that it receives many samples of dust from manufacturers who want to know if the particular kind of dust set loose in their plants is dangerous. The prevailing tendency is for the factory owner to think that his plant is immune, but so far tests have shown that every kind of dust submitted, except inert dust—that is, finely ground lime or rock—will explode if sufficiently concentrated, and ignited.

The reason for this is simply explained by the Bureau of Chemistry as follows:

"We might try for some time to burn a block of wood with a lighted match. If we take a knife and chip the block the shavings will ignite more quickly. We might make excelsior and find it would ignite still more rapidly, and then continue by gradual reduction to a degree of fineness until dust is produced, when it is found that the mass will burn rapidly when in suspension and dispersed on the air. The rate of burning is so rapid that a violent explosion may result."

In short, anything that will burn as a solid material will burn when reduced to the form of powder or dust. There is no way entirely to eliminate this dust from a product, and scientific tests have shown that a very small amount suspended in the air is sufficient to start an explosion if brought in contact with fire.

The main safeguards so far proposed are to have dust collected by special apparatus, and to keep it from piling up where it can serve as a fuse. Special window construction for factories is suggested by one engineer to allow the plant to be regularly flooded with air in order to remove dust and freshen the atmosphere. Workmen and managers are being gradually taught to safeguard their own lives by observing precautions. Once it was a common thing for a workman in a flour mill to carry a lighted match into a dim and dusty flour bin. When an explosion occurred, and not to the fact of fire, and dust being brought together. Now factory workers are learning never to smoke or carry matches about a plant; to keep dust from accumulating on beams, machines, pulleys, and floors; and never to use an open flame in a dusty place.

Even in factories where smoking is absolutely forbidden as a fire prevention measure, an open flame, such as an acetylene torch, is used with great thought of danger. How extremely hazardous this is the Government explosion experts have difficulty in proving to workers. But the soundness of their arguments and warnings was plainly demonstrated last fall when an explosion occurred in a mill due to dust being ignited by the intense heat from an acetylene torch.

So slight a cause as dust collected on an electric light bulb may start a fire, and then an explosion, as the heat from the bulb ignites the dust, and the globe breaks. This has happened, and it set the electric light companies to work devising safety globes for dusty factories. Experts insist that the safety of electric light fixtures are still being conducted.

Some investigations are still going forward in the Government, though the Bureau of Chemistry has no longer any fund of interest in its work in this field. Dr. Kistner, who conducted the work at the recent conference that in spite of lack of funds his bureau would not give up the work entirely. "We always have a little money that we can squeeze out here or there," he concluded, "but about the best that we can hope during the year is to keep the work alive and do some of the fundamental research that has to be done, so that if we are ever able to take it up again we will not have marked time."

The campaign waged by the Bureau of Chemistry, together with the Grain Corporation, has brought about greater concern on the part of manufacturers, but explosions still occur. Since last autumn there have been light fixtures, a grain elevator explosion with 14 men killed, and another with 3 men injured. Four firemen, fighting a blaze in a spice mill were killed last winter when spice dust exploded from the fire, and 13 other firemen were injured.

Most terrible of all was the aluminum dust explosion which several months ago killed six girls in the polish shop of an aluminum products factory, and burned five others so terribly that they will be scarred and injured for life. This accident seemed all the more a disaster because it was started by a piece of wire becoming tangled in the machinery for disposing of the dust from the polishing. A spark was struck and the dust ignited, causing a terrible explosion. Because of this accident, several improvements in the dust-collecting systems were suggested.

The country in general was first aroused to the danger of dust by the explosion in the United States elevator blow up, just after the United States elevator was blown up. The grain was destroyed by the explosion. A spark was struck and the dust ignited, causing a terrible explosion. Because of this accident, several improvements in the dust-collecting systems were suggested.

Before that, the wheat farmers of the Northwest had felt the destructive force of dust in connection with threshing. The wheat smut which for the last 20 years has been down over wheat crops, was largely responsible for the outdoor crops. It is estimated that there are 240,000,000 tiny spores of the smut in one head of smutted wheat. Sometimes infected wheat is 70 per cent or even more smutted; often the amount is much less, but still enough for a crop of fine dark smut blown about in the dust from the machinery and produce an explosion.

When the cause of the frequent explosions began to be understood attempts were made to ground the threshing machines with wires to prevent static electricity. Then a fact was discovered to blow or suck the dust away from the engine. The Department of Agriculture says that it has never heard of any serious explosion occurring where one of these fans was properly installed, and that the insurance companies, which for a time refused to insure threshing machines at all, have reduced the premium on machines equipped with fan apparatus approved by the Government.

The fan device that cleaned the grain so that it was safe to store was devised by a man who had a better price for his wheat, and then a way was contrived for the smut to be collected instead of blown away, so that it did not spread over the fields to infect the next crop. The threshing machine difficulty is considered practically solved. But the indoor dust dangers are not yet even fully realized by industry.

Freeman, the weekly conducted for so many years by Theo. Youmans, the Waukesha Daily Freeman has succeeded to the field under the same management as the Herald, and a good paper it is, too.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

I WOULD BE A PLAIN MAN.
I would be a plain man, a temperate and sane man.
A man that plays the game to win yet cheerfully can lose;
I would be a brave man, in times of care a grave man;
A man to take pot luck with chance nor want to pick and choose.
I would be a clean man, a kindly and serene man,
A man that doesn't pose to please the strangers passing by,
I would be a game man, in luck or out the same man.
A man that's unafraid to live and unafraid to die.
I would be a fair man, a glad to do and care man,
A man that doesn't stoop to shame some noble life has cut down the number of accidents there, but at a recent conference in dust explosions it was shown that in the 12 months preceding there had been at least seven serious explosions in other kinds of factories, in which at least 80 people were killed, and $7,000,000 worth of property destroyed.
I would be a kind man, sometimes a deaf and blind man,
A man that does not dwell too much upon his neighbor's sin.
I would not be a small man, a bigot 'spite of all men.
I want to give as I would take and grant as I request;
I want to be a strong man, an honest though a wrong man,
A man who though he win or lose, can say he's done his best.

News Notes From Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Another fair screen star will shortly join that evergrowing procession of those who are "heading own companies." It is none other than the pretty and talented Juanita Hansen who is now making serials for Pathé. Her latest serial was the "Phantom Fox" and at present she is at work on another called "Roaring Oaks."

Only stories of an unusual nature, written by the foremost authors, will be used by Juanita Hansen in the making of serials for her own company. An author of national note is now preparing the outline of the first script.

Miss Hansen believes that the use of the works of well-known writers in connection with her future activities in serials will add greatly to the interest of serials in general. While all of Miss Hansen's pictures of the past have been very successful, it is the ambition of her own company to hit even a higher level.

It is the intention of Miss Hansen's associates to make her new productions along lavish lines, with sets that would do credit to special feature pictures.

HARVEY, AN INVENTOR.
PAYS LEGAL FEE FOR HOME (Sixth Day of Story: "The White Flame.")

"Five years ago," began Harvey, "I lived with my father on a farm in Iowa. He was very severe to me. I had to work hard. It came time for me to start to high school. He wanted me to do a man's work on the farm besides. I hated both the school and the work, and each one made me hate the other more. I ran away to the city."

"During the past five years I have lived in the city. It was not pleasant. For three years I had a very hard time. My folks wanted me to come back home, but I refused. My pride would not let me. Then, after three years, I secured a position in a new factory making acetylene power plants for lighting houses. It seemed to me that a power plant to light a house and all the buildings on a farm is certainly a good job. I resolved to learn all about the business. The superintendent of the factory was very kind to me. Through him I learned that the president of the company was very anxious to develop a system by which the acetylene lights could be automatically lighted. I resolved to solve this problem."

"It seemed to me that it could be done with electricity, so I started to study electricity. I went to a night school. I found that there were two big disadvantages—I lacked education and I needed more time to myself. It was hard to study in the evenings in the city. Accordingly I decided to come out here to Valley Junction, where I could go to school and at the same time continue with my experimenting. I did not tell what I was doing, because I wanted to be free to go ahead without being bothered by anyone. I solved the problem of the automatic lighting shortly before Halloween. The night that the house burned I was simply trying to perfect one or two points that the president of the company is not satisfied with."

"I have here a letter from the president enclosing a check for $3,000.00."

"So, I intend to see that you have a new house much better than the one I burned. And better still, it is going to be equipped with the finest home lighting system in the world."

There are eleven players on a regular hockey team. The nice thing about it is that there is a different kind of position for each different kind of girl.

There are five forwards who rush the ball into the enemy's territory; five backs who, like the guards on a basketball team, keep the opponents away from their goal, and one goalkeeper who never leaves the shadow of the goal posts.

The game is started by "bullying off."

ROOT'S TELEGRAM ON THE LEAGUE

Difference Between Sen. Harding's Position and That of the Lawyer.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Elliott Root has advised Senator Harding that "a new deal from the beginning by abandoning the peace treaty of Versailles is impossible and that to attempt it would bring chaos and an entire loss of the results of the war and general disaster involving the United States."

This advice, it now can be disclosed, was given by cablegram from London by Mr. Root during the latter part of August and was an effort to keep Senator Harding from adopting the extreme position on the treaty and league which Senator Johnson was advocating.

Answer to Hays
The cablegram was sent partly as a result of an inquiry by Will Hays, chairman of the republican national committee, as to whether the league could not be so defined as to include the work supposed to be the object of the league of nations. Also there is an interesting story of what Root said to a man who was stopping in Marion during the latter part of August and who showed the cablegram to Senator Harding. Here is what Mr. Root said:

Root Makes Reply.
"Declaration on which Hays asks an opinion cannot be defined. The league could not be made to cover anything but justiciable questions. Matters of state policy must be dealt with by conference of powers. See my explanation in my letter to Hays of March, 1919. It is very unwise to declare it a league dead. It would not be true. The league has already begun to function because the terms of peace have not yet been enforced by the victorious nations. Polish questions for example are properly being handled by the foreign conference without any reference to the league. They are not the league's business."

Root on Abandonment.
"In my opinion a new deal here from the beginning by abandoning Versailles treaty is impossible. To attempt it would bring chaos and an entire loss of results of the war and general disaster involving the United States. The only possible course is to keep the treaty modifying it to meet the requirements of the senate reservations and the other nations and probably in some other respects. "The precise way in which some modifications can be best made must be determined at the time in conference with the other parties. It is impossible to forecast the methods because conditions next March are necessarily uncertain. Now the central idea is that the deadlock resulted from President Wilson's perverse refusal to negotiate for the consent of other powers to Americanization of the treaty but that our new administration will secure that consent. "Separate Declaration of Peace was issued only by President Wilson's refusal to act. After March fourth that will no longer be justifiable unless other powers refuse to consent to modification which I do not anticipate. Don't allow Cox to drive you off the ground of Harding's senate vote and out platform. Root to the simple issue Americanization." By examining the dates of the speeches in which Senator Harding discussed the treaty and league of nations during the month of September and October it will be noticed that nothing was said publicly by Mr. Harding which Elliott Root, at any time, it would be fair to say, contradicted the advice given for Mr. Root himself continues to support Harding and made a speech at Carnegie Hall, New York, in October, reiterating his position on the treaty and league.

Root a Reactionary.
In Marion, however, during the peace conference, Root was not held in the same high favor on questions of foreign policy as he appeared to be in Washington and New York and other parts of the country where it had been confidently believed that Mr. Root would be the backbone of the foreign administration on foreign policy. Indeed it will be noted that in almost all the dispatches sent out from Marion giving gossip about the future cabinet, Mr. Root was not named as secretary of state. It is also declared that when the Root cablegram came from Europe Senator Harding showed his displeasure. Whether he communicated his criticism to Mr. Root is not known to the writer but from the fact that the former secretary of state at a late date election of Harding on the league issue, the inference may be drawn that Mr. Root was not acquainted with any such dispatch. Indeed, the only evidence presented publicly that Senator Harding is disposed to disagree with Mr. Root came after the election and during this past week when in an address to the crowds who came to cheer him at Marion, Senator Harding spoke of the election verdict and then referred to the treaty of Versailles as "deceased." Mr. Root had cabled that it was "very unwise to declare the league 'dead'."

The 18th Explanation.
Friends of the treaty, however, have not lost hope and the few who know about Mr. Root's cablegram believe that Senator Harding must inevitably accept the Root view. As for the explanation made in Marion, 1919, in the letter sent by Mr. Root to Will Hays, the reference to the league court in that communication is as follows:

"There was a weakness in the system devised by The Hague conference. It was that arbitration of justiciable questions was not made obligatory so that no nation could bring another before the court unless the defendant was willing to come, and there was no way to enforce a judgment." After declaring that in his judgment strictly "justiciable or judicial questions" should be obligatory, Mr. Root wrote that the United States ought to be willing so far as questions were concerned to stand "precisely on the same footing as other nations," but that "with regard to questions of policy, some difficult considerations are apparent." He added, however: "The great and essential thing about the plan contained in the covenant of the league of nations is that it makes the international conferences on political questions compulsory in times of danger; that it brings together such conferences upon the call of officers who represent the powers and makes it practically impossible for any nation to keep out of them."

International Conference.
Mr. Root praised the scheme for international conference but pointed out some of its serious defects. The important thing, however, is that Mr. Root cabled Senator Harding from London after a personal observation of European affairs that the structure of the present treaty and the league was worth preserving and was by no means dead upon people will be called a clear break between Senator Harding and Mr. Root. Others are confident that Senator Harding will do the right thing when he calls a conference of the statesmen of America and that the value of Mr. Root's judgment will then be fully tested. The Root cablegram, which it is only fair to say he did not give out for publication is the deliberate judgment of a man who was secretary of state under President Wilson and the secretary of state of the United States at the second Hague conference.

Root Out of Tune.
In Marion, however, there is a disposition to advance to such an old age as to be out of tune with the spirit of the last election result and as having such sufficient with the international banking groups as to make his advice of doubtful value. Those are the two views and when President-elect Harding returns to the White House, it will be apparent exactly how much Elliott Root's advice will be taken on matters of foreign policy.

STATE EMPLOYEES ARE GIVEN SPECIAL COURSES

Madison, Nov. 8.—Courses of instruction are offered by the Wisconsin civil service to its employees through cooperation with the university extension division, Allen M. Ruggles, chief of the division. The first class, that in effective letter writing, was held last Friday. Wisconsin is taking the lead among states of the nation by offering an opportunity for special training to its workers, according to Mr. Ruggles. The commission hopes to increase interest in the civil service by continually raising standards and offering opportunity for advancement. Among courses offered are effective letter writing, filing and indexing, elementary statistics, office organization, courses for matrons and teachers, courses in English, courses for engineers and firemen, and general courses including topics of interest in political science and economics.

Giving Data Is Haskin's Official Job

1. "How did the custom start of calling our country 'Uncle Sam'?" 2. "At what address will a letter reach John Burroughs, the great naturalist?" 3. "What is the Einstein theory?" 4. "Will the gentlemen's agreement settle the trouble with the Japanese in California? If not, will we have to find a new solution to the problem of keeping them out?"

These are a few of the questions Gazette readers asked Euderic J. Haskin, director of the Gazette Information Bureau at Washington, D. C., the past week. To which Mr. Haskin replies as follows:

1. A certain Samuel Wilson was one of the inspectors of provisions during the Revolutionary war and was known by his friends as Uncle Sam, and since he stamped goods which passed his inspection with the initials "U. S." standing for United States, and also for the first letters of his nickname, the latter was jokingly used to designate the country. "John Burroughs" address is "West Park, N. Y."

3. "The Einstein theory embodies the idea of the relativity of all motion. It states there is nothing out in space in the nature of an ether or a fixed set of coordinates with regard to which motion can be measured. There is no such thing as absolute motion and that all that we can speak of is relative motion of one body with respect to another." 4. "It is probable that neither the state department nor the Japanese foreign office would be willing to concede that the gentlemen's agreement will not set at rest the problem of immigration of Japanese immigrants occasioned by Japanese immigration into California. You will see by the daily press that there is now being agitated a new treaty agreement between this country and Japan which is based on one of its provisions this very problem. Of course, the purpose of the gentlemen's agreement was to settle the trouble."

Free booklets given out at the bureau continue in popularity, a total of 57 having been given out during the week with which were also 52 booklets, five posters, and two democratic doctrines. "How to Get Spots Out of Your Clothes" is the booklet most in demand. 35 Gazette readers asking for this. Fifteen asked for the booklet on caring for the health of the school child, five on how to treat common colds, and two for the political campaign literature.

Information gleaned by Mrs. Anna Lator Burdick, special agent for trade and industrial education of girls and women, indicates that women workers who engaged in electrical work during the "World War" will remain in the industry.

U. W. CROWDED BUILDING PLANNED Large Enrollment Makes Improvements Necessary Says Thorkelson.

(By Associated Press.)

Madison—Estimated needs of the University of Wisconsin for the coming biennium, 1921-22, which will be presented to the state board of education, the state board of public affairs and the state legislature for consideration have been outlined by H. J. Thorkelson, business manager of the university. The principal problem to be presented to the legislature will be that of housing the enlarged university. Mr. Thorkelson said. In common with practically all universities of the country, Wisconsin now has an enrollment 40 per cent in excess of any previous year, which means an almost temporary accommodation of 7,000 students in an institution built for 5,000.

More Professors Needed
Increases in the existing budget of $2,779,072 for operation and maintenance of the university are explained as due to increases in the professorial ranks soon to be necessary to handle the excess load which will be met during the coming biennium in the upper classes. In all considerations, it was said, the proposed appropriations will be made upon the basis of an income equivalent to five-eighths of a mill, as presented to the special session of the legislature last June.

The large enrollment which came last year was felt most seriously in the freshman class. This year the increase has reached the sophomore class and in the coming period, which the legislative period will cover, the effect of the large numbers will be felt most in the junior and senior classes, where cost of instruction per student is more expensive than in the earlier courses.

No Salary Increase

The budget does not provide for any general increase in salary for professors and instructors. Wages of the faculty were increased a year ago to a point fairly comparable with those of competing institutions. Mr. Thorkelson said, and as a result of the action of the special session of the legislature, the regents were enabled to give new salary increases which brought them approximately 50 per cent above the pre-war rate. No large new buildings are contemplated in the program, but additions are urged to a number of buildings as necessary to meet the situation. The need for additional dormitories for women and the initial construction of dormitories for men will also be presented.

To Enlarge Main Hall

The largest single item is the addition to the main university building, Bascom hall. This building is now of "U" shape and it is planned to alter it to the form of a letter "E" and at the same time to rebuild the center portion of the building. The dome was destroyed by fire in 1917. Because of the narrow halls traffic rules are necessary to handle the students in the building. It will be made fireproof with fire doors separating it from the rest of the structure. Additional class room space will be provided as well as additional space for registering students.

New Shop Needed

The next important construction item concerns the engineering school. A new engineering shop building, which will provide additional space for shop laboratories and for a laboratory in steam and gas engineering, is contemplated. Mr. Thorkelson says that the engineering college has grown more than any other technical college and now has an enrollment far in excess of its capacity. The shop building program has been considered for years, and in addition, he says will enable the engineering college to provide equipment for shop instruction comparable with that of similar institutions and adapted to modern needs of shop practice and instruction.

Chemistry Building Crowded

Another important addition is urged for the chemistry building, where students are said to be crowded to such a point that it is necessary to store apparatus for separate students in small tool boxes. A fireproof book-stack addition to the law building is planned to properly handle the valuable library that has accumulated to a point where it can no longer be housed in the present building.

The School of Music, which now has a number of its studies in rented rooms downtown, is to have additional practice rooms, according to the plans. In the college of agriculture additions are planned to the building in plant pathology to permit an extension of the research work now being done. A practice cottage for students in home economics, a beef cattle barn, a central storage building for economical handling of feed, and minor buildings at the branch stations are asked for.

With the hospital building now under construction, the new shop buildings and additions to university buildings, the business manager says that it will be necessary to provide additional boilers at the heating station, to provide a new electric substation, to add tunnels for carrying the heating distribution system, water mains to take care of the fire hazard, and additions to the general service department of the university. In addition to the general building program, Mr. Thorkelson said that a memorial union committee is at work raising funds for the construction of a building to provide a fitting memorial to the memory of the 2,000 students who left the university to enter war service, and particularly to the 100 Wisconsin students who were killed in the war. He says that practically $300,000 has

Another Hen Heard From; Is 11 Years Old

Another hen heard from. The passing of Black Betty to chicken heaven last week after eight and one half years on this globe has caused this Evansville hen to strut around with more pomp than ever. For she is 11 years old and still growing. What's more she has no feet.

Puffed up by her own superiority as one of the oldest hens around, and surpassing in age Black Betty, the pet of the G. D. Cannon home, 324 South Division street, she has had her life history told by her mistress, Mrs. J. V. Haney, Evansville.

Mrs. Haney's hen is a little less than 11 years of age, as she came to them late in December, 1909. Both of her feet were frozen off and she was little larger than a quail. The Haney's were sorry for her and put her in the barn where they kept her all winter and gave her good care. She grew but made rather a small hen. "This fact perhaps, knowing that she could never scratch for a family, which has downed the motherhood instinct in her, in all the days of her life she has never shown any signs of brooding. Never has she been known to cluck or stay on her nest only while laying. But she is reputed by her mistress to be a good layer and laid well last summer."

now been pledged, while the campaign is barely started by which it is hoped to raise $750,000 from private sources such as friends and alumni of the university.
